Getting from the Keflavik International Airport:

All international flights go through Keflavík Airport which is located 50 km South of Reykjavík. There are two bus companies that operate from the airport and once you leave customs it's hard not to notice them they are on your right hand side and are named Reykjavík Excursion and Flybus. They are the best way to get to Reykjavík. The price of the bus is around 2000 ISK and they have open Wifi on board. You do not need to pre-order tickets they have buses scheduled with all flights around the clock. Travel time to Reykjavík bus terminal is about 40-50 minutes. If you prefer taking a Taxi they can be found when exiting the terminal. Taxi prices are however steep and are around 15.000 ISK.

Getting to and from Akureyri:

Akureyri is in Northern Iceland, and is located 360 km from Reykjavík.

Taking a domestic flight is recommended. Domestic flights can be ordered through this website <http://www.airiceland.is/>. The duration of the flight is 45 minutes and you need to be at the airport 30 minutes in prior to departure.

Upon arrival back in Reykjavík again taking a taxi to hotel or bus terminal is recommended to take the flybus to Keflavík.

Several Car rentals operate at Keflavík Airport these can be found here.
